Dear Kathleen Sebelius, Secretary of Health & Human Services,

It's about time!

Although I'm very pleased with this landmark decision and I applaud it, I'm dismayed it was such a long time coming considering the fact that it was an unquestioned given that men would get insurance coverage for Viagra since its inception.

Now, if only we - as a society - could begin to alter the conversation and have more mature, realistic dialogues about human sexuality and how preventing unwanted pregnancies is not only good for society it is good for the health and well-being of men and women alike.

It is also high time we begin to examine the strange and hypocritical moral crusade of many a politician and talking head and their unsavory connection with the media's charade of "family values" while simultaneously sending mixed signals to us all via perpetually hyper sexualized images of - all too often - teenaged or preteen girls.

That said, this is progress and I, for one, hope for more!

Sincerely,

Robin Sherwood
